

HOUSE OF MARLEY

As we continue to build our arsenal of licenses and names; we have recently created and launched The House of Marley L.L.C. with Marley's family as co-owners of the venture.

The House of Marley will bring joy to everyone by offering a wide range of accessible and affordable products. The first phase includes a line of consumer electronics including boom boxes, docking stations, ear buds and headphones. The second phase will include categories such as luggage, bags, kitchenware, aromatherapy, and sensory products such as soy-based, organic candles.

The House of Marley products will also be enhanced by an affinity program that enables everyone involved to support Bob Marley's vision of hope and unity. Through the creation of unique products and the reinvestment of proceeds, people and charities from around the world will benefit. The focus will be on three main causes that will change the world forever: youth, planet and peace.

PRODUCTS THAT GIVE BACK

Working together for a better world, The House of Marley was created from the belief in Bob

The Jammin' Collection

Marley's vision of "One World, One Love." Driven by the desire to bring joy and spread happiness to people around the world, The House of Marley developed a range of earth-friendly, innovative products that adhere to the Marley family core values: equality, unity, authenticity, charity and sustainability.

Bob Marley was a friend to all nations. He spoke of the need to respect the earth, treat every human being with dignity, and to live a life of honesty and integrity.

Bob was not a preacher. He was a performer who delivered his message with energy, creativity, and an irrepressible love of life. That is why when we talk about the principles that guide our company we never forget the most important one - joy.

RELAXATION TIP OF THE MONTH

There is evidence that eating dark chocolate every day (yes, every day!) can help reduce stress.

A study, outlined on WebMD, found that people who originally rated themselves as highly stressed had lower levels of stress hormones after eating dark chocolate every day for two weeks. Subjects in the study ate the equivalent of one-average sized dark chocolate candy bar (1.4 ounces) each day for two weeks.

Dark chocolate has also been linked to other health benefits such as reduced blood pressure and improved mood. Also, several studies are currently investigating how elements in chocolate help fight heart disease and reduce the chances of developing cancer. The best news of all – you no longer have to feel guilty about your chocolate cravings!
